RECRUITING RULES

- ❑ Each sport has set rules, and you must learn them.
- ❑ Freshman & Sophomore year: You are allowed unofficial visits, up to three complimentary tickets to a sporting event, and may only talk to a coach on his/her campus.
- ❑ After September 1st: A coach may contact you, but only off of his/her campus and he/she is allowed one phone call per week to you.
- ❑ Senior Year: 5 official visits (1 per campus, 2 days max.) Within 30 Mile Radius.

Getting Around The Rules

- ❑ College Coaches communicating with your High School or Club Team Coach
- ❑ Athletes making unofficial visits and talking to the coach on campus
- ❑ Recruits attending camps on campus and talking with the coach

How to Know If a College Coach is Interested in You

- ❑ No Contact Means No Interest – Blanket Letters
- ❑ If a Coach Gives You Their Personal Contact Info, That is a Great Sign
- ❑ Personal Letters or Emails Saying “We Know Who You Are”
 - This usually means they have you ranked in the second tier of their recruiting class and your offer (whatever it will be) will need to wait until they know what is going to happen with their top ranked recruits.
- ❑ Letters Inviting You to Invite Only Camps or to Fill Out a Recruiting Questionnaire
 - It is critical you respond to any school that shows interest and don't stop until you are getting personalized letters or phone calls.

Social Media Mistakes

- ❑ 90% of your Social Media is Negative
- ❑ Don't bad mouth coaches, teammates, opponents, referees or yourself
- ❑ Your friends' pictures can affect you
- ❑ Private accounts may mean you have something to hide – they will find a way to see your information

Social Media: Do's and Don'ts

DO stay positive when posting on social media. Putting a positive spin on disappointing situations shows good character.

DO NOT post anything you wouldn't want your parents, teachers or employer to see.

DO share those postgame selfies with your team. Say how the game went and show you're a team-first player.

DO NOT criticize coaches, teammates or opponents. Avoid airing out frustration when things don't go your way.

DO make sure your social media presence reflects who you are in real life. Make sure people see you the way you want to be portrayed.

What Recruiters Look For

- ❑ Character – what does your character show on social media
- ❑ How you interact with your peers.
- ❑ Things that you've said about your current team.
- ❑ If you've said anything about the coach.
- ❑ What kind of photo's you've uploaded.
- ❑ Whether you use inappropriate language.

Clean Up

- ❑ First, start by going through all the photos that you've either uploaded or have been tagged in. Delete or untag any that recruiters might find inappropriate.
- ❑ Now it's time for the hard work. You need to go back through all of your tweets on Twitter and posts on Facebook and delete any that might be found as inappropriate.
- ❑ Check your biography on the different social media sites. Make sure it accurately reflects you and your goals.

Stay Clean

- ❑ Don't let your emotions get the better of you – Got into an argument with a coach? Nearly got into a fight at school? Had words with a team-mate? Keep it off the internet.
- ❑ Don't post any inappropriate photos – I think you can work this one out on your own.
- ❑ Don't use inappropriate language – If you're dropping curse words all over the internet coaches are going to assume you're a 'knucklehead' (taken from the first tweet). As said earlier, you're a reflection of the school.
- ❑ Don't post anything negative about school – This should be obvious since the place you're trying to get into is a college.
