

Parent Report Card

Students get report cards; schools get report cards; and teachers get report cards in the form of evaluations. Regarding your involvement as a parent of a student, you are invited to grade yourself on our Parent Report Card. If you are not satisfied with your score, contact your son's or daughter's school counselor for tips on how to be more involved in your child's education.

Yes/No

1. I attend Open House to meet my child's teachers and see classrooms.
2. I contact teachers or the school counselor regarding my child's progress at least one each semester.
3. I attend my child's extra-curricular activities (sports, academic, art events.)
4. I know my child's school counselor's name and how to reach him/her.
5. I frequently ask my child about school assignments or check PowerSchool to monitor assignments.
6. I know when to expect my child's report cards and progress reports.
7. My child has a quiet place to do homework.
8. I expect my child to be responsible for his/her education through good attendance, preparation for and participation in class, discussions with teachers when extra help is needed, and appropriate use of technology, according to school policy.
9. I talk with my child about how to get help with emotional and social issues, if needed.
10. I know how my child can get academic assistance at school, if needed.
11. I discuss with my child options for college and career choices.
12. I have or will provide opportunities for my child to visit college campuses.
13. I have or will provide opportunities for my child to explore career options.
14. I review with my child his/her career inventory results and use the results in college/career planning.
15. I encourage my child to participate in extra-curricular activities at school or in the community.
16. My child has an opportunity to develop responsible behavior by completing chores, caring for siblings, or balancing a part-time job with school responsibilities.
17. My child understands my expectations for behavior in and out of the classroom, including his/her use of technology, and receives appropriate consequences for misbehavior.
18. I provide opportunities for discussions with my child and listen to my child's opinions and comments.
19. I provide opportunities for my family to have fun together.
20. I praise my child or share something positive every day.
Give yourself 5 points for each Yes answer.
TOTAL

Scoring: 80-100 points
60-80 points
Below 60 points

You are helping your child achieve success at school.
Take steps to become more involved with your child's education.
Evaluate your parental priorities and the effect your decisions are having on your child. The higher your score, the greater your child's chances for success. Seek help from outside sources to improve your involvement in your child's education.